

Responses from DUP

Last Monday the DUP published its full manifesto, which is available online.

It is not our normal practice to comment on issues on a case by case basis outside the terms of the manifesto which has been approved by the party.

However I am sure you will also be aware of the positions that the party has taken in relation to the matters that you raise in recent times which you may also want to consider.